2022 Project Report

Friends,

Thank you so much for the generous donations you have committed to ADP in the past. Your dollars have helped to secure clean water, promoted food security, grown family incomes, planted trees and sponsored orphans for school. Now, the combined effects of drought, an NGO sector hobbled by the pandemic, and inflation (which in Kenya is now almost 10% annually and in the countryside is dramatically higher) are causing many families to cut meals to one per day and to opt for cheaper foods. Due to new education policies, intended to make up for lost time under Covid-19, families are struggling to pay mounting school fees on an aggressive schedule imposed by the new government.

In the areas we serve we are seeing hardship and economic stress unlike times of the recent past. Your generosity means so much to our development projects in East Africa and to the families and communities we are working with. Your gift makes a difference. Please dig deep. Thank you!

AFRICAN DEVELOPMENT PARTNERS is a 501(c)(3) organization.

AFRICAN DEVELOPMENT PARTNERS

The Privilege School, Migori, Kenya

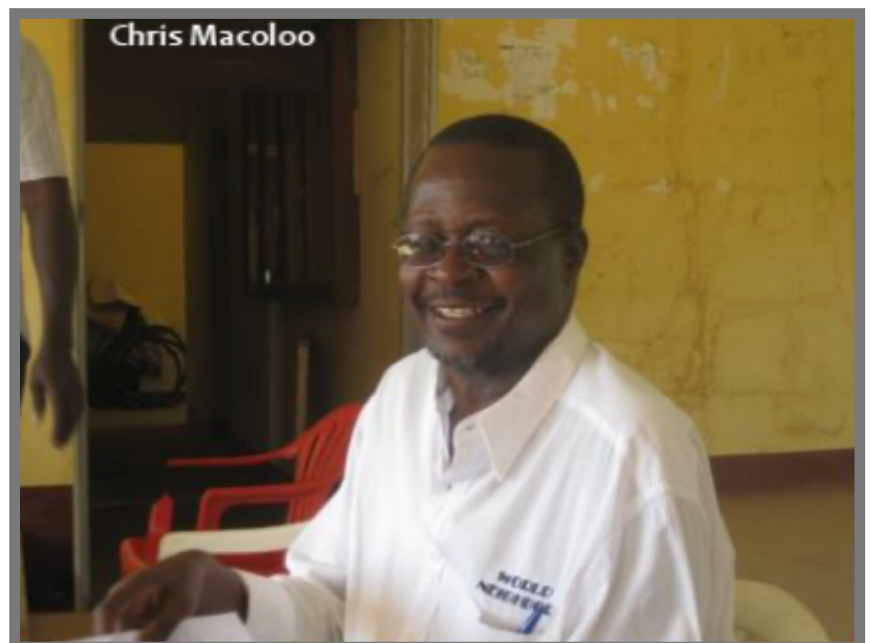

Near Migori Town, Kenya, the Privilege School is an elementary school. Many of the students are orphans. The project is a legacy of the late Rev. Peter Indalo, a partner in development with African Development Partners (ADP) for many years. Lydiah Vusaka Esige, now the school's principal, administers the school under the most difficult conditions.

In previous years our support provided water tanks, plaster for walls and floors, and windows. Current pressing needs are for food, school fees, and teacher salaries. ADP has, during the past year, also covered high school fees for primary school orphans who are graduating. Recent changes in the administration of schools in Kenya (following the recent election) are requiring increases in school fee commitments from parents and sponsors alike. ADP is reviewing the situation to determine if it's support can keep pace with the quickly growing demand for support.

World Neighbors - Tanzania

In collaboration with our long term partner, World Neighbors, we are supporting two programs in northern Tanzania: the Lake Community Program and East Mara Community Program. Both programs were launched by World Neighbors' Chris Macoloo during the fiscal year 2022 following the successful conclusion of development initiatives in Uganda. Both programs are implementing activities aimed at food and nutritional insecurity, poverty, disease burden, the HIV/AIDS pandemic, environmental degradation, and gender inequalities.

2022 Project Report

Kitui Development Center, Kitui, Kenya

The Kitui Development Centre (KDC) in Kitui, Kenya, targets the rural poor and vulnerable in eastern Kenya. Under the direction of our partner, Janet Mumo, KDC works to reduce poverty through multiple strategies: women's savings and credit groups, education and training for orphan youth, and training in food security and health care. The Kitui Rescue and Conference Centre provides shelter, counseling, and job training for exploited children and youth. Recent contributions have included support for caregivers and food for orphans, and a van to allow regular visits to distant development projects.

From Janet's recent email:

"The projects are doing well despite challenges of the drought and high cost which is affecting our community with most of them reducing the meals from 3 times to once a day and eating what is available but not what you want. KDC and the community we work with are in a process of starting an emergency community based school feeding program to ensure the children stay in school. We have developed the plans and are sending the same to our partners and well wishers for support of food items and seeds. We are optimistic that most people will buy our idea. The rains are expected to start in mid October while the next harvesting period will be in March next year.
